The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry, no matter how small, should be recorded to ensure the integrity of the financial data. This includes not only sales and purchases but also expenses and income. The text suggests that a systematic approach to record-keeping is essential for identifying trends and making informed decisions.

In the second section, the author addresses the challenges of managing cash flow. It is noted that many businesses struggle with timing their payments and receipts. The text provides practical advice on how to negotiate better terms with suppliers and customers to improve liquidity. It also discusses the importance of having a reserve fund to cover unexpected expenses or downturns in business.

The third part of the document focuses on the role of technology in modern accounting. It highlights how software solutions can streamline processes, reduce errors, and provide real-time insights into financial performance. The author recommends investing in reliable accounting software and ensuring that staff are properly trained to use these tools effectively.

Finally, the document concludes with a section on tax compliance. It stresses the need to stay up-to-date with the latest tax regulations and to consult with a professional advisor when necessary. The text offers tips on how to optimize tax deductions and ensure that all filings are accurate and submitted on time.

FOREWORD

As we pause at the door of the future and look back over the early years of Presbyterian Junior College, we see those names and ideals dear to every student. May this book be a reminder of those on whose shoulders the work of this school has rested and of those high ideals formulated through our associations here.

DEDICATION

O. W. FERRENE

To Professor O. W. Ferrene, the class of 1939 dedicates this sixth volume of "The Bagpipe" with the hope that it will in some way express our sincere appreciation for his past efforts in our school and for the example he has set before us as a Christian leader. May his influence be always felt by those who follow us.

The Student Council has functioned very efficiently this year. The students have discharged their duty most honorably and the cooperation between the council and the student body has made this one of the most successful years in the history of the school. We wish in this issue of "The Bagpipe" to express our appreciation of the work done by the council and hope that the future councils will live up to the standards set by this one.

The Student Christian Association was formed to take the place of the Y. M. C. A. this year. Under the capable leadership of its president and cabinet and the advice of Mr. Massey it presented many interesting programs through the year.

The aim of the S. C. A. is to make the students feel at home on the campus, to promote a positive moral college spirit, and to lead students to an abiding religious faith.

The Block "P" Club had only five members returning this year. The rest of the members have made their letters in some sport this year.

The Club has taken an active part in the campus activities. They have been responsible for the success of many of our dances.

This edition of "The Bagpipe" wishes to thank the Club for the leadership it has taken in campus activities.

The Glee Club although late in starting this year is progressing rapidly under the direction of Mr. Little. It is the hope of Mr. Little that the club will be able to present a series of programs in the near future.

There has been a fine spirit of cooperation between the members of the Glee Club and Mr. Little. This spirit with long hours of practice has enabled the club to progress rapidly.

"The Bagpipe" wishes them much success in their commencement program.

The Literary Society is a new organization on the P. J. C. campus. It has been organized this year under the direction of Mr. Boyle and the students have taken an active interest in it.

We are sure that it will do much good for the students as well as the school. It has been meeting regularly every week and there have been some very interesting debates presented in their meetings. "The Bagpipe" would like to thank Mr. Boyle for the interest that he has taken in this society and to wish the society much success for the future.

Coach Steve Brown came to P. J. C. this year from the Sanford High School where he had compiled an excellent record. We do not believe P. J. C. could have selected a better man for head coach in Football, Basketball, and Baseball. He has won the respect of every P. J. C. student through his Christian leadership and the fine example he has set for us on the campus.

He did not have very much success with the teams in Football and Basketball but we think he did a very good job with the material available. We know that he is going to have a much better team next year. We wish him much luck and a winning team.

Coach Henry Massey is also new on the coaching staff. He has rendered valuable service in aiding Coach Brown. He has worked very hard with the various teams as assistant coach and we feel that he will be of much value to Coach Brown next year. We extend him our best wishes.

Coach Little has been on the coaching staff for the past three years. He has taken an active interest in promoting a splendid intramural program here at P. J. C. He is also head Coach of Tennis and Track. These sports were not included in the program last year but it is Coach Little's hope to have this sport back on the program this year. "The Bagpipe" wishes him success in this endeavor.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

The intramural sports program again for the second year has attracted more interest from the student body than any other program of the extra curricular activities.

Included in the intramural program this year is tag football, basketball, and tennis. Teams from the freshman class, sophomore class, and the commercial class formed a league for tag football. Seven teams participated in the intramural basketball tournament. At present there is a tennis tournament being conducted with about thirty-five boys participating in it.

We feel that most of the boys have enjoyed the intramural program this year and we hope that more will participate in the program next year and that it will be enlarged.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 13.5 million (1990-2000) (ONS 2001).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the health care needs of the elderly population. The Department of Health (2000) has set out a strategy for the NHS to meet the needs of the elderly population. This strategy is based on the following principles:

- To ensure that the NHS is able to meet the needs of the elderly population.
- To ensure that the NHS is able to provide a high quality of care to the elderly population.
- To ensure that the NHS is able to provide a range of services to the elderly population.

The NHS is currently facing a number of challenges in order to meet these principles:

- A growing elderly population.
- A growing number of people with long-term conditions.
- A growing number of people with mental health problems.
- A growing number of people with learning disabilities.
